

GPG Projects Manager (with advanced Arabic speaking skills)

£28,000- £32,000 pa

NB At present, personnel are working hybrid remotely and from the London office. The postholder will be expected to travel frequently to project countries as part of teams.

Global Partners Governance works with parliaments, governments, and political parties around the world to promote representative politics and effective governance. Our work directly supports politicians and staff and has included the delivery of projects in Africa, the Middle East, and Central Asia. The postholder will manage specific projects in Africa, the MENA, or Central Asia region as well as contribute to GPG's wider research, communication, and business development activities.

Applicants must have current UK work authorisation that does not require employer sponsorship.

Role and tasks

The Projects Manager will:

- Manage the implementation of project activities. This includes writing narrative reports, financial management of projects, and monitoring & evaluation.
- Manage stakeholders' relationships, with a particular focus on remote relationship building/upkeep.
- Develop partnerships and directly implement activities in project countries in line with workplan.
- Brief and liaise with our project specialists and consultants to maximise their contribution to project activities.
- Liaise with other GPG project managers on synergies between our existing projects.
- Travel regularly to project country and occasionally other countries where necessary for project activities and company events.
- Identify opportunities to grow and extend GPG's work, including through partnerships with new organisations and funders.
- Maintain a thorough knowledge of the political developments in the MENA region and carry out research in support of projects.

Person Specification

- Previous project management experience, preferably in an international and/or political context.
- Fluent English and Arabic language skills are a core requirement of the role, with native or near-native proficiency including excellent writing skills.
- Some knowledge and understanding of monitoring and evaluation approaches for governance projects and/or adaptive management approaches.
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills: ability to communicate effectively with a diverse range of stakeholders and to work collaboratively as part of a team.
- Knowledge of MENA politics, and previous political professional experience preferred.
- Flexibility and ability to adapt to changing work needs and political environment.
- Educated to university level.
- GPG works in fragile states and developing countries. Applicants must be available and willing to travel regularly to these countries as part of a short-term project team.

Please note GPG/GPGF reserves the right to appoint two Project Managers should more than one suitable candidate be found.
